Friendship / Kindness / Love

- ◇ Discuss with your child ways he/she can show the strengths at home.
- ◇ Teach your child that he/she is responsible for his/her own character. Remind them about the stories of the Rainbow Rider and The White Elephant who decided to show the character strengths of friendship, kindness and love and were rewarded in return.

Your character is what makes you the person you are. It is about how you relate to other people and the world around you. Our character strengths define the person we are. We all have our own set of character strengths. It is up to us to find out what they are and use them. When we develop our strength of character, recent evidence has shown that we will live happier and more meaningful lives.

We change the world by tiny individual acts of honesty, courage, kindness and integrity, by celebrating our own strengths, just a little more each day, and helping others to do the same. (Jenny Fox Eades)
